THE PILKINGTON FLOAT GLASS STORY

The invention and exploitation of the float process is 'one of the great process inventions of the [twentieth] century', and its magic gave the world the capability of making a valuable, invisible product more cheaply than ever before. This superb new book explores how it was that Pilkington Brothers, one of the smallest of the plate glass producers, came to be the dominant force in the world of glass, through a mixture of brilliance, skill, bravery, hard work and luck.

Float: Pilkington's glass revolution is a highly readable account of the invention, development and exploitation of the product which has transformed the built environment worldwide, bringing light, reflection and drama to offices, homes and landmark buildings. Published to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the invention, the book is by former company secretary David Bricknell and is a wonderful celebration of Pilkington endeavour.

SPECIAL OFFER – £5 OFF!

A VERY SPECIAL OFFER FOR YOU

This beautifully produced, illustrated hardback will be available in very limited numbers in the shops, priced at £25, well in time for Christmas, but you can guarantee your copy and help support this important publication by ordering copies in advance at the special 'subscription' price of just £20 each. You can order online with your credit card at www.carnegiepublishing.com, pay by cheque and fill in the form below, or telephone the publishers on 01524 840111 or 840555 for further details, or to place your order.

When you subscribe to the hardback you will get:

★ £5 off the bookshop price; ★ FREE carriage when you order more than 1 copy (if you order online you can make up your order with any of our other titles); ★ An extra 15% off if your order is more than £50. ★ As a token of your support we will include your name in a List of Subscribers within the book itself (you can opt out of this if you prefer).

An acknowledgement will be sent to all subscribers, which will confirm your order details and delivery address. It will also show you how your name will appear within the List of Subscribers in the book (it is usually along the lines of 'Mrs Martha Smith, Ingleton'). You will be able to choose to have your name omitted from the List of Subscribers, or to have a relative or friend's name included instead of your own, making subscription a perfect gift.

Closing date for subscriptions is 15 September 2009 (to give us time to print the List of Subscribers in the book). You can still order online at the special rate after this date, but we will not have time to include your name in the List of Subscribers. ORDER NOW!
